

Right Will Win
Feuerlicht Tells Protest Service

Declaring "right will prevail over wrong," Rabbi Morris M. Feuerlicht urged the community-wide service at crowded Knesses Israel Synagogue Wednesday night to reassert its "faith in God and faith in Democracy." In a stirring address in the Orthodox congregation, Rabbi Feuerlicht, dean of the Reform rabbinate of the Middle West, and spiritual leader of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation for more than 36 years, declared that although God appeared to be asleep at the moment, Israel's enemies of the past are "stuffed models in museums for Jews to sneer at."

Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt presided at the service, which was one of the most impressive in the history of the Jewish community.

Rabbi S. A. Katz brought the worshippers to tears with his account of the former Tisha B'Abs, listing the destruction of the two Temples, the expulsion from Spain and the start of World War I, of which he said the present war is merely a continuation. Rabbi Katz pointed out that today there is no difference in Jews, Orthodox, Conservative or Reform, that in the eyes of the world today they are alike.

Dabbi David S. Shapiro, of Knesses Israel, who was scheduled to speak in Yiddish, did not deliver his sermon, after Rabbi Katz's sermon made the meeting last until almost 11 p. m.

At the conclusion of the service, Rabbi Goldblatt read a telegram which was sent to President Roosevelt, the two Indiana Senators, Representative Ludlow, Secretary of State Hull and Governor Schriker in behalf of the assembly and the city rabbit. The Formation of a city-wide rabbinical group to include every rabbi in Indianapolis was informally initiated at a meeting last Friday morning, attended by practically every rabbi in the city. The gathering was called the largest meeting of city rabbis in the history of the Indianapolis Jewish community by Rabbi Morris M. Feuerlicht.

At the same meeting some discussion was held on the possibility of forming a State Rabbinical Association. Every rabbi present approved of the idea.

The meeting last Friday was called by Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt at the behest of the Synagogue Council of America to make plans for the city-wide services which were held Wednesday night at Knesses Israel Congregation.

Food Shipments
To Ghettos May Soon Go Through

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
LONDON—Negotiations for the purpose of arranging the shipment of food to the starving Jews in the ghettos of Nazi occupied Europe through the facilities of the International Red Cross are approaching their final stages, it was learned this week from well informed sources here.

These sources report that a plan has been prepared under which a monthly quota of at least one thousand packages of food would be dispatched from Britain alone. Quotas would be allotted to Jewish organizations in other democratic countries that wished to send food.

For many months, ever since the first "mercy ship" was sent to Greece with food for the starving population there, Jewish groups in England and America have been conferring with their respective governments in an attempt to secure permission to ship the food through the British blockade. A few weeks ago the subject was discussed on the floor of the House of Commons, at which time Foreign Minister Anthony Eden stated that the "British Government is acutely aware of the horrors and deprivations inflicted upon the people in occupied countries and has facilitated schemes for food relief without impairing the blockade." In May, United States Ambassador Anthony Drexel Biddle and the Polish Premier Sikorski conferred on the problem.

Roosevelt Pledges American People Will Hold Nazis
Responsible for Atrocities

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—The American people will hold "to strict accountability" the Nazi authorities who are attempting to exterminate the Jews of Europe, President Roosevelt declared in a message read this week to thousands of persons who crowded into Madison Square Garden here to attend the mass demonstration against Hitler atrocities, called by the American Jewish Congress, the B'nai B'rith and the Jewish Labor Committee.

The President's message, which was addressed to Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the Congress, stated:

"Americans who love justice and hate oppression will hail the solemn commemoration in Madison Square Garden as an expression of the determination of the Jewish people to make every sacrifice for victory over the Axis powers. Citizens, regardless of religious allegiance, will share in the sorrow of our Jewish fellow citizens over the savagery of the Nazis against their helpless victims. The Nazis will not succeed in exterminating their victims any more than they will succeed in enslaving mankind. The American people not only sympathize with all victims of Nazi crimes but will hold the perpetrators of these crimes to strict accountability in a day of reckoning which will surely come."

"I express the confident hope that the Atlantic Charter and the just world order to be made possible by the triumph of the United Nations will bring the Jews and oppressed people in all lands the four freedoms which Christian and Jewish teachings have largely inspired."

After hearing addresses by a distinguished group of Jewish and Christian leaders, the meeting adopted a proclamation citing the fact that of all the persecuted peoples the Jews have borne the brunt of the Nazis' wrath and requesting that the leaders of the United Nations take immediate action to impress upon the Nazi leaders that reprisals will be exacted for the persecution of innocent civilian populations in occupied nations.

JEWS WILL NEVER BE EXTERMINATED

Pleading that the Jewish people will never be allow itself to be exterminated, the proclamation states:

"To the democratic civilized world, we turn and ask: Do you not see what is being done to a great historic people? Let your voice of wrath and condemnation be heard, that the enslaved and tortured may know that you stand by them in this hour of titanic tragedy. To the leadership of the United Nations we solemnly appeal to give expression to their determination that on the day of reckoning the Nazis will be called to account for their deeds of torture, plunder, arson and murder."

The proclamation hails the anti-Nazi resistance which is growing throughout Europe and "the sacred flame of hope burning in the ghettos." It further affirms that "as the representatives of the organized masses of the Jewish community of America, we here pledge ourselves to make every sacrifice to support the United Nations in their struggle for freedom and human decency against totalitarianism and darkness."

MAKE PLEA FOR JEWISH ARMY

Discussing the grave dangers that threaten Palestine, the gathering expressed the hope that the United Nations "will enable the Jewish community of Palestine to defend itself in order that the Jews of Palestine be not exposed to the same fate which has overwhelmed millions of our fellow-Jews in Europe."

Among those who addressed the meeting were: Governor Her-

See Hurt to United Nations' Cause if Palestine Jews Are Not Allowed to Die as Soldiers

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Emphasizing that the Axis armies in Egypt still present a very grave threat to the security of Palestine, David Ben-Gurion, chairman of the executive of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, this week demanded the "immediate and full mobilization of all Jewish manpower in Palestine, without preference and without discrimination, on a basis of equality with all other people."

Mr. Ben-Gurion stated that American public opinion can play a vital role in convincing the British Government that separate Jewish military units must be formed in Palestine. Speaking of American aid in the form of armaments, he disclosed that although some American planes and tanks were participating in the battle for the Middle East, it will be two to four months before large-scale aid from the United States can reach this area. This period is crucial, he pointed out; and utilization of Palestine Jews may enable the British forces to hold Rommel until the American arms arrive.

Reviewing the repeated but unsuccessful efforts of the Palestine Jews to secure military units of their own within the British Army, Mr. Ben-Gurion, who spoke at a press conference at the Hotel Commodore here arranged by the American Emergency Committee for Zionist Affairs, pointed out that at present there are about 13,000 Jews serving with the British forces, enough to form a division almost immediately. From the untapped reservoir of manpower in the country at least another three divisions could be organized, he declared. About 20,000 of these potential soldiers have seen military service in the armies of their countries of origin so that they would require very little additional training. The Agency chairman stressed the fact that at present only 4,000 of the Palestine Jews in the British Army are in combat units. About 1,500 are with the R. A. F., mostly as members of the ground crews, while another 2,500, who are ready for actual combat, have been kept in Palestine.

"The invasion of Palestine by Hitler, even temporarily, may result in the complete annihilation of the Jewish community there—men, women and children—and the total destruction of their work by the Nazis with the help of the Mufti," Mr. Ben-Gurion stressed. "To the Jewish people throughout the world, this will mean more than the massacre of some 60,000 Jews; it will be the ruin of their Third Temple; the destruction of their Holy of Holies."

"It may be that with all the Jews of Palestine fighting to the last, invasion and destruction cannot be avoided. But even then it will be a matter of supreme importance whether Jews of Palestine perish as soldiers and men fighting their enemies or are slaughtered like defenseless sheep. Should our people in Palestine be massacred, having been denied the right of self-defense by the Mandatory power, it will not only be a most tragic disaster for Jews. It will deal a fatal blow to the prestige of the British Government and bring grave moral damage to the cause of the United Nations. Public opinion throughout the civilized world will be aroused against this wanton sacrifice of a people needlessly deprived of the means of self-defense. This catastrophe threatening Palestine must be averted. There is no time to be lost."

GET PEAK PERFORMANCE OUT OF YOUR Electric REFRIGERATOR

Your Electric refrigerator does not have to be pampered. It's built to stand year upon year of hard 24-hour-a-day service

It has always been wise—from the standpoint of economy, efficiency and durability—to follow correct storage and maintenance methods, and it's even more essential now that your Electric refrigerator must outlast the war. Locate your refrigerator away from heat... defrost and wash inside regularly... avoid overcrowding... keep rubber door gasket free from grease and in good condition... put in and take out food as quickly as possible.

FOLLOW THESE CORRECT STORAGE METHODS

1. Put milk and beverages right beside the freezer.
2. Frozen foods and desserts go into freezer itself.
3. Meats and fish go right underneath the freezer.
4. Custards and chilled puddings go in top middle.
5. Butter keeps best in the top middle section.
6. Foods prepared ahead and left-overs in lower middle.
7. Vegetables and most fruits go in humidifier drawer.

Between You and Me

By BEN LEWIS

POLITICS

By the time you'll be reading these lines, Dr. Weizmann will have seen President Roosevelt for the second time in one month. . . . This may indicate the extent to which President Roosevelt is interested in Palestine. . . . Whether this means also that the establishment of a Jewish Army will soon be permitted remains to be seen. . . . Dr. Weizmann, it is understood, is, however, optimistic about Palestine becoming a Jewish Commonwealth after the war. . . . He is also certain that the United Nations will defend Palestine and that the Jews there will be given the necessary aid to defend themselves. . . . Some Zionist leaders now regret the fact that they rejected that so-called "partition scheme" offered by England two years before the outbreak of the war. . . . Had Palestine been partitioned, there would have now been a Jewish State which would not have to beg permission for the establishment of a Jewish Army, they point out. . . . Small as the Jewish State would have been under the partition scheme, it would have had the right to build and maintain its own army without anybody questioning this right. . . . Furthermore, it would have received Lend-Lease funds from the United States in the same manner as all other Allied Nations, including the Government-in-Exiles. . . . In fact, the possibility is not excluded that should the establishment of a Jewish Army be permitted even now, the Jewish Agency for Palestine may receive Lend-Lease money for the upkeep and the development of this army.

HEROISM

Lieut. Gabriel Frumkin of Memphis, Tenn., who downed five "Zeros" in one afternoon, is a living example of Jewish determination "to get even" with the enemy. . . . A son of Jewish immigrants from Poland, he is now the holder of the Distinguished Service Cross. . . . All his life he wanted to go to West Point. . . . Failing in this ambition, he entered the military Academy in Chattanooga, graduating with the rank of Lieutenant. . . . Later he entered the University of Chattanooga, where he was a sensation as a fullback. . . . On March 13, 1941, he attended a moving picture showing Hitler's atrocities against Jews in Poland. . . . Incensed by what he saw, he enlisted the next day in the Army Air Corps. . . . On January 13, 1942 he was shipped to West Africa and two days later he was in Cairo, Egypt. . . . About three months later America learned the story of his daring exploits in piloting the B17 bomber. . . . He has been shot down three times, once with his plane afire, and once seriously wounded by bursting shrapnel. . . . Each time, however, before being shot down, he gave a good account of himself. . . . In one engagement he destroyed five enemy planes who were attacking him. . . . In another he assisted in the sinking of two Japanese airplane carriers. . . . His exploits have brought favorable comment from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

ARTS AND LETTERS

One of the numbers received most enthusiastically by the capacity audience that heard Paul Robeson, noted Negro baritone, at Lewisohn Stadium in New York last week was a Jewish chant. . . . It was the famous song of the Berditcher Rebbe questioning God as to why so much suffering has been visited upon the Jewish people. . . . In the chant are the opening words of Kaddish, which Robeson sang in Hebrew. . . . Before presenting the song Robeson, who is noted for his championing of minority groups, told his audience that he was dedicating it "not only to the hundreds of thousands of Jewish people in Europe, but to oppressed people everywhere." . . . A 70-year-old Lithuanian Jew, Lazarus Goldschmidt, has completed in London a task he started more than forty years ago. . . . He translated the Babylonian Talmud into German, an accomplishment which history will record as a monument to human perseverance. . . . It was thought impossible for one man to accomplish the translation in his lifetime. . . . It took Goldschmidt more than twenty years to do the translation and editing, and twenty years to see the work through the press. . . . Over 10,000,000 words were involved and the work runs into nine volumes. . . . He is now at work on a tenth volume, which is a subject index.

Jerry Vogel Heads B'nai B'rith's New Project

Special WASHINGTON, D. C.—With Jerry Vogel, of South Bend, Ind., former assistant national secretary of A. Z. A. as secretary, B'nai B'rith has adopted a new project, Boy Scouting, which now will come under the wing of the national organization in the same manner as A. Z. A., Hillel, and other work of the order.

Under the new plan, the B'nai B'rith, working together with the A. Z. A. will provide the scoutmasters, troop committee men, meeting place and other necessities for scout troops, with the troop as a whole under the sponsorship of the local B'nai B'rith lodge. The troops will be known as B'nai B'rith-A. Z. A. Boy Scout Troop No. —.

Sam Beber of Omaha, Neb., founder and former president of AZA's Supreme Advisory Council, will serve as chairman of the new project.

The arrangement was worked out between Dr. James E. West, chief Scout Executive; Henry Monsky, and Phil Klutznick, B'nai B'rith and A. Z. A. heads respectively. Scouting has long been one of the aims of B'nai B'rith, and although now it will become a major part of its program, the order already sponsors 40 troops.

AL SEGAL Speaks On On Vacation

A GENTLEMAN who had just read that 700,000 Jews were slaughtered by the Nazis in Poland alone asked: "Where is our God of Justice? Where is He who promised to bring the transgressor down to the dust?"

The gentleman was thinking of the transgressors marching on in triumph, no end.

He recalled what was written in Psalms: "In the secret places the wicked doth murder the innocent. . . . He lieth in wait secretly as a lion in his den; he doth catch the poor when he draweth him into his net."

The gentleman remembered also the promise of retribution: "His mischief shall return upon his own head, and his violent dealings shall come down on his own pate."

Mankind, he said, waits distressfully for a sign of the truth of this. Mankind looks hopefully to the heavens and finds Hitler there. Bombs fall. The gentleman asked: "What answer have the rabbis, the ministers and the priests?"

I consulted no rabbi, minister or priest for the answer, but I did take the matter up with my well-known ancestor (he has been previously mentioned in this column) who is the shammos in the heavenly congregation of Israel on high.

He was a pious man on the earth and a wise one, too; for his great piety he was allowed to continue in his function of shammos after he arrived in paradise. For his wisdom he remains respected even in heaven where the wisest spirits of all the times have been assembled, though his opinions are not always in line with conservative doctrine.

He is one of those who do not blame everything on God and upon Him set all the responsibility for the affairs of man. A liberal mind, he is, indeed, one of the leaders of the celestial party that, were it an earthly organization, might be called the Justice-for-God party.

This party takes the stand that God has done enough for people, like a father for his children. And what more is to be expected of a father after he has brought up his children in the ways they should do and has endowed them with riches even beyond their merits? What more can such a father do for his children?

Though in this opinion my ancestor is in the minority among the dwellers in Paradise, he continues to enjoy the highest esteem. It never has been even suggested that he be removed from his position as shammos on high because of his heterodox belief; for in heaven people have come at last to tolerance.

In the heavenly congregation of Israel there is only the friendliest debate on the duties of God. One side quietly argues that God should take a decisive hand in the sorry affairs of men while the other, led by my ancestor, insists, just as quietly, that God has more than fulfilled his duty to man.

"It is enough," he always concludes, "that God has given man a mind and a heart which are wrapped in a portion of His spirit."

This was the thesis of my ancestor's speech when I brought him the gentleman's question. My ancestor's ghost had seemed to issue from the vapor of my pipe, as he always does when I take up abstractions of theology.

He stroked his beard which was as long as the plume of my smoke. . . . "It is true," he began, "that the mischief of the wicked shall return to his own head and his violent dealings shall come down upon his own pate."

"But when?" I inquired. "The righteous are cut down like wheat. They are thrown together like offal, in one grave and there is no mercy even for their little children. Why does not the mischief of the wicked return on their own heads, as was written. Seven hundred thousand Jews have perished and these are only a fraction of all the murdered of all kinds of people. Where, indeed, is God in all this?"

He replied simply that God is in the hearts of all moral men. He is the courage of men who look at the wicked and are not afraid of them. He is the valor of men who lay down their bodies against the march of transgressors and do not let them pass. He is the spirit of all men of all times who have gone without fear to battle for such things as justice and liberty and to put down the pretensions of the arrogant and the evil power of persecutors.

My ancestor, who had himself seen much of it, fell into the mood of history: He recalled the almighty power of moral valor in all the times. Had not all the progress of man been made by the brave hearts of little people setting themselves without fear against the power and the principates of the arrogant?

"This is the unconquerable authority of God in the heart of men," he said.

Had not little people by the light of their hearts broken through immense darknesses and found their way to the mountain top and stood at last where they could see the dawn?

"This," he said, "was the inextinguishable light of God in the hearts of men."

He remembered the story of the Jews. By what had they lived even unto now without arrows and without guns? The bodies of Jews had been destroyed many times the 700,000 who have perished in Poland, but Jewish life had kept on living by the vital principle of God which the dying handed down to their generations—this moral valor, this light of their hearts which showed the way in the dark, this will of righteousness to live and to conquer.

And what had become of the evil powers of the darkness against which the little people of the world set the light and the might of their hearts. Truly, my ancestor said, their violent dealings have come down on their own heads, as the Psalms said.

Yes, he concluded, when men become afraid and timid and ask "Where is God?" forgetting He is to be found in their hearts, then they are lost. Then they are weak for they do not know the almighty strength of their hearts, nor do they know their own light that can conquer the darkness, nor the divine and unconquerable spirit which is of themselves. They are the defeated over whom the arrogant march to victory.

My ancestor said this was his answer to the gentleman. He hoped that now that he knows where God is he will not be afraid. The victory over the arrogant transgressors is in the hearts of people that are strong with the divine spirit that has been given them to show them the way.

"The gentleman," he said, "should not look to the skies but to his own heart. That's where God is."

When my little daughter's appetite languished and she asked me why she had to eat food, I explained to her that we had to have nourishment to keep going, just as much as a car needed gas and oil to run.

One day when I was combing her hair and it snapped and crackled, I said, "You've got too much electricity in your hair."

"No, mommie, you mean I've got too much gas and oil in me."

House Hears Demand For Jewish Army

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON—Formation of a Jewish Army in Palestine was urged on the floor of the House of Representatives this week by Rep. Richard P. Gale (R., Minn.)

"If there are 100,000 men willing and anxious to fight on our side, not across the ocean, not a month or two months from the front, but almost within whooping distance of the Suez Canal, why not do something about it?" he asked. "It is very important, very urgent and very nearly too late—and it will be too late by next year."

PILAM SCRIBE SAYS

To the editor,

Your editorial of July 17, The Pilams and the Sammies, appears to invite comment, and I imagine that any editorial bringing in both fraternities, would receive comment.

As I wrote the release in which the Sammies were quoted as playing "a wonderful" game of ball, and being "o.k.," perhaps my reply might be the most significant.

It is true that there is a rivalry between the two Jewish fraternities on the Indiana campus, and at times it is a very strong rivalry. The case you mention concerning one fraternity pledging a man on your fraternity's doorstep, might reveal the extent of the rivalry. Although even you will admit that it's a good trick if you can do it—I can also imagine that your particular fraternity tried it quite often.

But that is beside the point. The question you raised concerned itself with the extent of the "feud" at the present time whether or not seeing congratulations in print mean anything... whether this "Era of Good Feeling" would last past Rush Week.

In answer I wish to say that I printed the congratulations because I thought they had a good baseball team and had played a fine game of ball. They did the same thing after we had won the annual pledge football game. The rivalry as far as I am concerned is a friendly one. If the Pilams defeat the Sammies in anything, I'm happy, so are the rest of the fellows. But as far as detracting from any success they might have—well I don't think either House will in all seriousness try and say that the other has no virtues.

When Rush Week comes along, we're going to try and pledge the most men and the best men. They will try to do the same... so will every other fraternity on the campus. Undoubtedly they'll try to put something over on us, we'll try to do the same. The rivalry's still there. So's that competitive spirit. We think it's good—but we still maintain that our "rivals" did play a darn good game of ball last week.

Although the farewell services Friday night several weeks ago for Rabbi Charry were full of drama, a touching scene went practically unnoticed in the small prayer room adjoining the downstairs vestry of the Temple. There standing side by side in childish solemnity were sunny, wide-eyed Marim David Charry and lithe little Tziporah Glass, fair-haired daughter of Cantor and Mrs. Myro Glass. In a sort of symbolic leaving-taking Marim David made out as if he were reading from one of the large chumishes, while Tziporah looked on intently with decorum until the reading was finished. Then the chumish was held aloft (like the Torah) and Tziporah followed Marim David around the Bimah as they chanted the traditional melody. The march completed, the tableau broke up into rollicking laughter, as the longheld serious mien of the children could no longer be contained.

Jacob Weiss, who contends that to take a golf lesson would make the game too serious and rob it of its pleasure, won a matched set of irons last week at the sessions of the Indiana Movie Producers at Lake Wawasee. The former Senator copped the set in a blind bogey, finishing with a 98 for the 18-holes.

Who should walk into the office Tuesday, attired nattily in a navy uniform, but B. B. Rowe, who for more than three years was managing editor of The Jewish Post, and who enlisted in the navy on ec. 8. Rowe used to be stationed in the submarine command at Pearl Harbor for about three years back in the twenties, and when war was declared resigned the very good position he had on the copy desk of the Louisville Times, and enlisted. He said his submarine, operating out of an East coast base, is patrolling the Atlantic shipping lanes. Naturally he couldn't tell me much, but our whole office was thrilled to see him again. Rowe has many friends in Indianapolis. He looks like an admiral, having gained weight in more ways than just physically.

Mrs. Goodman to Keep Records

Mrs. J. A. Goodman, chairman of War Records Committee of the Jewish Welfare Board Navy and Army Committee, will be in complete charge of war records and statistics for local Jewish boys, it was announced this week. She will work in conjunction with Mr. Norman Isaacs, public relations chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board Navy and Army Committee. "Dollar a Year"

Anyone visiting Bill Rosenberg at the Center will find a new face around the premises. Bill has a new assistant, "A Dollar A Year Man," Miss Emma Gelman, who is well known in the community. Miss Gelman is handling such details as picnics, entertainment and other program activities. The new telephone number of the USO of the Jewish Welfare Board, is Highland 0550.

3 Fans Donated

Mr. Rosenberg wishes to express his thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dayan for the gift of two large electric fans. One fan is now in the lounge and the other is being used in the auditorium. Another fan was donated by Mrs. Leibert Mossler, for which thanks are also expressed. The USO Club is still in need of record albums, a record player, and lounge furniture. Call Hi. 0550 if you wish to supply any of these items or drop a line to the Center.

Mrs. Rappaport thanked

Special thanks must be given to Mrs. Louis Rappaport, chairman of the Transportation Committee who furnished transportation for one group of young ladies who attended services, and saw to it that Rabbi Fox was able to get back to Indianapolis in time for his own services.

Soldiers' Families Visit Center

The USO Club at Kirshbaum Center is becoming an increasingly popular spot for families of the soldiers and sailors here. Among those who visited over the weekend were Mrs. M. Frumkin of New York City, mother of Private Murray Frumkin; Mrs. David Greinsky, wife of Private David Greinsky of New York City; Mrs. E. Wyll of Houston, Texas, wife of Private Esir Wyll; Mrs. S. Shapiro, Mrs. F. Shapiro, and Mrs. Pincus of New York City, mother, wife, and sister of Private Milton Shapiro; Mrs. B. Kling of Denver, Colo., wife of Private Ernest L. Kling; and Mrs. L. Stern of New York City, wife of Sergeant Stern of Camp Atterbury. It is most gratifying to hear the comments of the soldiers' families when they visit the Center. The usual reaction is one of surprise at the friendly and homey atmosphere.

HEBREW CALENDAR

Rosh Hashanah (Eve) ..Sep. 11

Kol NidreSep. 20

Holidays begin at sundown the day before the date designated.

The editor's chair,

I spent a very enjoyable evening last Friday with Rabbi Max Braude, chaplain at Fort Knox, near Louisville. I drove out to the Fort with Si Slavin, USO-JWB representative for the Louisville area, and on the way we compared notes on the programs in our two cities, and surprisingly, although Louisville has won a reputation as doing the finest job in the nation, our own community seems to be doing as good or even a better job.

I was very much impressed with Rabbi Braude. He has won a national reputation for the work he has done at Fort Knox, and in the past few weeks has addressed nine national conventions (all Jewish) on the problem of Jewish chaplains (I wish I could write the editorial I want on this question, but all I can tell you now is that the rabbis have been something very much more than slow in leaving their comfortable pulpits for the very necessary work with Jewish soldiers, many of whom now are going without proper spiritual guidance).

I spent a considerable time just watching Rabbi Braude's technique, and I arrived at the conclusion that he tries to kid the soldiers along most of the time, and is able to make this attitude effective because he has finely-developed sense of humor, and can make a disgruntled soldier appear ridiculous by turning an unhappy situation into a funny one. Then with the ice broken, he gets down to the real meat of the situation.

For instance, one of the men who crowded into Chaplain Braude's office after the services wanted to know about his citizenship papers. The Chaplain, evidently having heard of his problem, said, "What are you, a Hungarian?" I was surprised at the reaction, because the fellow started to walk towards the door. He seemed insulted. But he stopped before getting out of the room, and called out something about not being a Hungarian. The chaplain hadn't moved from where he was, and no doubt had he tried to follow, the fellow would have continued right on out, but sensing that he was not getting anywhere, the soldier turned back towards Braude. With that the Rabbi grabbed his arm playfully, and then quickly turned him around with a wrist lock, and they wrestled-like, for just a second. It turned out that the fellow had been born in Hungary, had been reared in Czechoslovakia (he tried to consider himself a Czechoslovakian) and was educated in Germany. Braude in his witty way, kept saying well what are

City, State Rabbinical Body May Be In the Offing

THE VERY EFFECTIVE service Wednesday night, participated in by all the city's Congregations may well have been the first step towards a united body of the city's rabbinical leaders, and possibly even the first step towards the formation of a State Rabbinical body.

The services were planned at a meeting last Friday morning called by Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt, and although the principal business of the session was the Wednesday night service, yet comment was made on the possibility of the formation of a city-wide rabbinical group.

Every Indianapolis rabbi concurred in the necessity for such a body. Some discussion was carried on too, and all favorable, for the organization of a State rabbinical group. Certainly if one of the purposes of the service Wednesday although unquestionably not the major one, was to arouse public opinion over the Nazi atrocities, then a service in every city in Indiana large enough to boast a congregation, all on the same night, would have been just that much more effective. This is just another instance of the need for a State Rabbinical organization.

New Boldness In American Jewish Leadership

THE MASS MEETING in New York Tuesday night is the first evidence of a new boldness in national Jewish leadership. Albeit this new attitude has practically been forced on a feeble leadership both by the trend of events and by the Jewish masses, at any rate it portends a determination that Jewish organizations no longer will sit by and quake, but will react like ordinary human beings.

The American Jewish Committee for some mysterious reason was missing in the list of sponsors of the affair, although according to a Jewish Telegraphic Agency report tacked onto the news story announcing President Roosevelt's proclamation, there was a message from that group. It's really a shame the way the committee is pushed around.

Any reading of the early history of the Jews of this country will reveal the true courage and forthright action of the Jewish leaders of the last century. For instance when General Ulysses S. Grant issued the order prohibiting Jews from trading in a certain area in which the soldiers were encamped, delegations from Cincinnati, Louisville and Paducah, no doubt each acting on its own, called upon President Lincoln to protest.

In the last twenty years Jewish leadership in America, outside of the American Jewish Congress, which unfortunately has had almost the least backing of all Jewish groups, has dodged around so much, that it took the worst pogroms in the history of civilization to get it to the point where it could exhibit forward motion once again.

Listing of Men in Service Valuable

ON ANOTHER page of this issue is printed the most complete listing available to date of the Indiana Jewish men in the armed services.

This listing has been compiled and kept up to date by the Post at considerable expense, and in cooperation with local agencies in many of the cities listed.

For many reasons, it is valuable that such a listing be compiled. The Jewish Welfare Board is particularly anxious that such records be maintained.

In the smaller communities, where everyone knows everyone the problem is quite simple. But in the larger communities such as Indianapolis and some of the other cities in Indiana, many parents do not know that these records are being kept. By printing the list from time to time, with new names added as they are sent in, The Post is able to perform a service not possible through any other source.

The list was printed for the first time in our issue of May 15, and the additions shown below came in mainly as the result of that first printing. If you know of any names not listed, please advise the parents to contact The Post.

A Prophecy on a Small Matter

THE CHICAGO Jewish Chronicle comments on the change in the Standard Club of that city, which formerly was a "citadel" of the assimilated Jews, and which now has become so co-operative as to open its doors to meetings even of the Zionist group.

The change is not confined solely to Chicago. Louisville's Standard Club and the Broadmoor Club here probably went through the same process from admitting to membership only the sons and daughters of the old waves of immigration to throwing open the doors to the families of the later immigration from 1890 and on.

And it is logical too. How can Jewish people, faced on all sides by discrimination and closed doors, say one to another, I am better than you, and I won't deign to associate with you and your kind.

And the day will come when the wide and beautifully preened expanses of Broadmoor's acres, often on week days deserted for want of players, and the facilities of the club, unused for good parts of the week because those financially able to pay to use them are busy with other duties, will on these easily predetermined hours, be thrown open at a minimum fee to any member of the Jewish community.

Current Comment

The National Workers League "Newsletter" Discusses the War in its July 1 issue — From the current picture it appears that unless the British overcome their inferiority complex; namely, the belief that no man without Jewish blood is capable of supreme leadership, that the price of their ignorance will be the loss of the heart of the British Empire. On the home front we fear the internationalist element are going to be successful in leaving us wide open to a Japanese invasion. There should be at least 250,000 men stationed in Alaska, and it is our guess that not more than 25,000 are there today. The Aleutians are slipping slowly but steadily to the enemy, and yet newspapers and press releases continue to lull the mass mind to sleep by reiterating the statement that this first step in the invasion of the American continent is but a defensive move on the part of Japan.

The yellow case in our opinion is a far greater menace than Hitler. It is the supreme duty of every intelligent American to fight the current Jewish-Communist plan that one third of the white race must be exterminated in this war, and to support leaders who are capable of grasping the vital need of a united white race with all members equal in status.

you? and the fellow finally coming around to realizing that he was a Hungarian citizen, said in surrender, "jewis," with which the whole office, crowded with soldiers, and the fellow himself, burst out laughing. He couldn't enunciate the "sh" sound. Then he conceded that he was a Hungarian, and Braude said, well we're right back where we started from. This word tilt went on before about ten soldiers, who were very much amused by the whole situation, and the Hungarian then got his advice as to how to proceed to apply for citizenship.

There were other complainants, some seeking advice, and two who wanted to thank the rabbi for services performed. One had been in the post infirmary, and the other was getting a transfer to another division made possible, as I understood it, by the chaplain's intercession.

I enjoyed the evening thoroughly. The services in the Post chapel (used by Catholics and Protestants too) were very impressive, and although in very intense heat, as fine as I've ever attended anywhere. Rabbi Braude spoke for only the shortest time, but very much to the point and without the least attempt at histrionics.

Afterwards we drifted over to his quarters, and had such a long talk that I almost missed my appointment for my ride back to the city.

The chaplain situation has been discussed pro and con in Jewish circles for the past half year. First there was the charge that the rabbis were not volunteering. This was denied. Then in the June issue of the Contemporary Jewish Record, Rabbi David de sola Pool, head of the chaplains division of the Jewish Welfare Board, took up about ten pages whitewashing the rabbis.

About a week ago I had a long talk with one of our state rabbis and the truth is that there is need in the army for 52 rabbis today, that the road for rabbis to enter the service is made very easy, and even the requirements have been lowered (for all clergy). In the case of Reform rabbis, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations will supply any rabbi wanting to enter the service with a graduate who will fill their pulpit at the exact salary the chaplain draws, while the differences between that salary and the salary the rabbi was drawing is paid the rabbi by his congregation. There is even the guarantee that the rabbi volunteering will get his pulpit back at the end of the war. One Orthodox group has issued an ultimatum that every rabbi not either volunteering, physically unfit or already engaged in necessary war work, will have to resign from that body by Sept. 1. Which would indicate to me that the situation is serious.

I am not trying to disagree with the JWB or to interfere with their policies, but since they bombard me with publicity releases almost every day in the week, I would like to suggest respectfully that if they want to get Jewish chaplains, just send out one release stating the exact situation to me and my colleagues in the Anglo-Jewish press and the public reaction will be enough to fill up the chaplain roles almost immediately.
